Thinking Out Loud

(By H. M. L.)

Every community which has a live wide-awake women's club is fortunate. These clubs look to the things which make their villages and towns more livable, better places for boys and girls to grow up in, with improved social conditions and advantages. The organized women of Camptonville, is an instance of this kind of endeavor. Their club is making a determined effort to establish a county library with the ultimate object of obtaining a branch for Camptonville. If the supervisors are wise, politically and otherwise, they will heed the plea of the Camptonville women. They might as well have the honor of establishing this institution as some later board, for ultimately the women will win. Their cause is just. Every community, no matter what its population, should have a library.

We do not need go far afield to see what a determined body of women can do. The Civic Club in Nevada City has accomplished more in improvements for this community than any other organization of its size we know, here or elsewhere. It has contributed generously to the Boy Scout movement, to the municipal swimming pool, to the public library, and to making the Christmas festival a time of joy for all children, especially those of scanty living. The good works of this club go on, in season and out, year after year. They join their forces to all other organizations which seek to improve Nevada City's home life. The record of the club is one of unselfish, constant endeavor for raising the standards of living in Nevada City.

In this connection we want to issue a warning. While the Civic Club, fraternities, civic bodies and other organizations take no part, as such, in city or county elections, the members are all vitally interested in the policies of the city and county government. They should be interested in this. There is a movement on foot in Nevada City to make the closing hour 2 o'clock in the morning for liquor resorts. This hour is the state closing hour, but municipalities are permitted to make their own closing, which is now 1 o'clock in the morning, in this city.

It is the view of this writer that we are cursed with too many liquor resorts, too much liquor served at all hours, (all except five out of the twenty four) too much drunkenness on the street, too many in jail for offenses due to drunkenness.

From a business point of view a disproportionate expenditure of the workers money for liquor is bad business. Drunkards notoriously neglect to pay their food and clothing bills, permit their auto payments to lapse, and in other ways shirk their duties. In other words every other merchant suffers when the liquor merchant gets the larger part of the workers' earnings. From this point of view every business man, even including the reputable liquor dealer, should oppose increasing the time and opportunity for spending more money on liquor.

In fact reputable liquor dealers would do well to seek a curtailment of the hours for selling, rather than to lengthen them. They also should welcome a high municipal license which would freeze out the keepers of small dives and dens which habitually evade the law and engage in cut throat competition which permits nobody in the liquor business to make any money.

Unless something in the way of adequate control is imposed on the liquor business, we shall presently find that it is controlling us—our municipal, county and state governments. A new city government is soon to be elected and placed in office, and it might be well for the voters to find out the sentiment of the candidates for the office of city councilmen whether or not they favor the "wide-open" town, or a reasonable control of the liquor business. There is room for an honest difference of opinion here, but this much is certain, no drunkards paradise was ever good place to rear children and build homes.

Liquor dealers in Nevada City complain that as the ordinance now stands they must close at 1 a. m., while just outside the city the county permits all kinds of roadhouses and resorts to flourish until 2 a. m. When they close the "soaks" move outside the city limits and continue "sopping them up." This may be true. In any event the sober hard working folks in the city are permitted to sleep undisturbed by the early morning whooper, or whoopee. The point of view however is wrong. The liquor dealers in the city should organize and seek a county closing ordinance of earlier hours, and higher licenses that would put a lot of fly-by-nights out of business. They should consider that the lumber dealer, the clothing merchant, the barber, the beauty shop lady, the grocer, the theatre owner, and yes, by heck, the newspaper publisher, has the same right to be in business and profit by it, that they have, and see to it that they don't ask or obtain special privileges and advantages that are denied other business men. Otherwise the day may come again, as it did once, when the people will say with Lady Macbeth: "Out! Damned spirit!" and put the liquor business "out" for keeps instead of a mere thirteen years.

BAD COLD NEARLY COST THIS MAN $15

Al Geck; who resides on the Downieville highway west of this city, told friends here he was accosted by two Gypsy women early this week who asked for a drink of water. They took food from his table and as he handed the drink of water to the woman she said: "Oh mister you have a cold!" and stroked his collar. He carried his money in his vest pocket and in a few seconds realized he had been robbed of $15. He asked for his money and she refused. As he glanced about the kitchen both noticed a large cleaver on the shelf near him. The woman gave him $10 and when he demanded the rest she handed him the $5. The paper money had been made into tiny rolls and was held tightly in her palm.

DERANGED WOMAN TRIES TO KILL HER OWN CHILD

Mrs. Pansy Misner of Grass Valley has been committed to the Stockton state hospital, after an attempt to kill her small child and end her own life by drinking iodine.

Using a piece of iron for a weapon investigating officers say, Mrs. Misner struck her child. A 10 year old son probably prevented the child from being injured fatally.

While he held his mother's arm, Frank Misner, the husband, was awakened. He rushed his wife to the hospital here and the iodine was pumped from her stomach. Late Wednesday she was removed to the county jail.

Misner said his wife told him she wanted to take the young child with her in death.

The near tragedy took place Wednesday. That night Misner was the operator of a car that struck and injured two Civilian Conservation Corps youths west of Grass Valley.

GOLD STAR PROPERTY

A company has taken a lease on the Gold Star mine which adjoins the Norambague property south of Grass Valley. A small hoist has been completed and the 175 foot shaft is ready to be unwatered and cleaned out for examination.

Mr. Fred Elierman, city employee is confined to his home with flu. Mr. Ernest Towle is filling his position until he is able to return.

PRINCIPAL OF SACTO. HI GIVES TALK ON SAFETY

George Jensen, principal of the Sacramento high school yesterday addressed the Rotary club on "safety". He was introduced by Bill Cain, formerly principal of the Red Bluff high school, who was chairman of the day. With Jensen, was John Lynn, a member of the Sacramento board of school directors.

"Few people appreciate the magnitude of this subject of safety," declared Mr. Jensen. "We have 130,000,000 people in the United States and we could put them all in passenger cars, at one time, and move. The condition is without parallel in history and today is true of no other part of the earth.

"There are three factors to be considered in traffic safety. The roads, the equipment, and the person behind the wheel.

"As regards roads we are paying taxes about 25 per cent of all the money spent on gasoline to build good roads. You have heard of the splendid military highways of Rome. Their best roads do not begin to compare with the roads built through out this country. In one California county there are more and better roads than all those built by ancient Rome.

"We are still suffering from an old time system of building roads, the kind that were built of earth and rounded in the middle. Occasionally you still find these roads, and they are a driving hazard. Trucks cause about 27 per cent of all accidents and there have been several proposals for eliminating this hazard. One is to limit their use of the roads to night time. Another to keep them off the roads on Sunday, and another to build special roads for trucks and take them off the present highways altogether. Something must be done about it soon for as matters stand they are getting larger and heavier and are a constantly greater hazard.

"The second factor, that of equipment, is being carefully studied. Down in Sacramento we have established a safety lane. This bit of equipment specially built to test cars, as regards their wheel alignment, their brakes and other mechanisms affecting safe use. Of 2441 cars which voluntarily accepted the challenge of this safety lane, 1503 cars were found to be defective. It was found that from canstant parking the righ wheel of a large percentage of cars had gradually been forced out of alignment, which causes tire wearing and that in turn becomes a serious road hazard. This safety lane also proved that about one third of the cars have seriously defective brakes. One car which mechanics declared had no brake fault, was found with a brake which did not act, did not even touch the drum of one wheel. In time we think these safety lanes will be placed in general compulsory use and that for a charge of about 71 cents per annum for each car owner, they will be self sustaining.

"It is a question which may seriously be debated whether ancient and outworn automobiles should be permitted on the roads. We hear much about constitutionality these days, the right of each individual to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness, and it is questionable whether in preserving rights of those who own old and dangerously defective cars, the rights of other road users are not being jeopardized. Ways of eliminating treacherous cars that constitute a menace are now being studied.

"A third factor is the person behind the wheel, and it varies with practically every driver. We have the indifferent driver, who refuses to assume the responsibility that driving a car entails. He shirks his duty of respecting the rights of his fellow citizens and road users the minute he sits down behind his wheel.

"Again there is the driver who just doesn't care He knows he is responsible but he doesn't care. There is only one way to reach a driver of this kind, and that is with the strong arm of the law. He will in time be denied the use of the roads, the right to drive a car, for the reason that he cannot be brought to respect the rights of others. In a democracy individual rights are predicated upon individual responsibilities.

"In this connection we must strive for adequate enforcement of the laws, traffic laws, all laws. The fellow that tears up his ticket with impunity is a threat to the rights of all of us. Little by little we are going to improve the personnel of our police. A Sacramento captain of police is now going to school to learn his business in a northern college where a course is given to train police officers. For the highly intelligent criminals of today we need a specially trained and intelligent force of peace officers.

"Other drivers are color blind, or see objects in only two dimensions. The latter cannot tell the distance of automobiles ahead of them and for such people to pass a car is an exceedingly precarious action. If a person is driving 45 miles an hour, and seeks to pass another car driving at the same rate, and leave a margin of 100 feet in which to regain his side of the road before meeting another car, also driving at 45 miles rate, how far away must the approaching car be, to make the passing of the car ahead, safe? That is a mere matter of mathematics. The car which seeks to pass the car in front must have 800 feet in which to pass the car or nearly two city blocks. The law requires that he must be on his own side of the road 100 feet before he meets the approaching car.

"For people who are color blind our stop and go lights are very badly chosen, for the color blind invariably cannot distinguish between red and green, and one in every twenty is color blind. Then there is a third class of drivers whose reactions are very slow. It takes too long often for a brain signal to reach the braking foot. With these drivers whose re-

SEVEN MEN IN RACE FOR THREE COUNCIL SEATS

Three vacancies are to be filled in the city council of Nevada City the positions being held by Mayor Ray Murchie, James Penrose and Robert Nye. Messrs. Penrose and Nye are entering the race for re-election, while Mr. Murchie states he will not be a candidate. As it now stands seven citizens have announced their candidacy for the three vacancies in the council. These men are Dr. W. P. Hawkins, James Penrose, Frank Davies, Alfred Haddy, Robert Nye, Frank Dillon and Charles Leiter. The election takes place April 14.

Charles Leiter, property owner and local garageman, who has been in business in Nevada City many years is well acquainted with the city's affairs. He takes an active interest in all community undertakings.

Robert Nye, mining engineer, and property owner and business man, was appointed to fill an unexpired term on the council several months ago. He has served the city faithfully and is well informed on all matters pertaining to city government.

Dr. W. P. Hawkins, local dentist, is one of the city's prominent young business men who is interested in civic affairs. He was among the first to announce his entrance in the race for councilman.

James Penrose, property owner and one of the leading grocers of this city, has served one term as councilman and is up for re-election. He takes a keen interest in city affairs.

Alfred Haddy, candidate two years ago, has announced his candidacy. He has followed mining as a profession many years. He is much interested in city activities.

Frank Davies, large property owner, who with his sons operates the Plaza Garage, has always been interested in this city's betterment.

Frank Dillon has resided in Nevada City many years. He is interested in mining near Washington and is always interested in the city affairs.

Five Mines Reopen Under New Auspices

This review of mining activity for March reveals the reopening of Esperance at French Corral, the Sneath and Clay of Nevada City, the Clerkin gravel property at French Corral, the Valley Gold Mines east of Nevada City and the Gold Star south of Grass Valley. A total of forty men have been put to work on these properties in the last month. On the other hand the Empress has closed, said to be due to the ore pinching out, and its reported that plans have been made for a reorganization. Golden Center and Zeibright have increased their working forces and the Pennsylvania in Browns Valley has practically doubled its crew.

The total number of men reported at work in mines in the county is 2,500 with a pay roll of $350,000, the number of men being about 25 less than reported in February. Reports from the various properties follow:

FRENCH CORRAL GRAVEL PROPERTY

Eight men are employed at the French Corral gravel property under Hector Declue. The trommel machine with full quipment is handling the gravel, recovering good gold values according to reports. Plenty of water is assured for operations for some time.

RAGON MINE

Sinking to the 400 foot level has been completed in the Ragon mine on Cement Hill northwest of Nevada City. Twenty four men are employed under Superintendent O. E. McCraney.

GOLDEN CENTER MINE

Ten men have been added to the payroll at the Golden Center mine in Grass Vally in the last few weeks, making 110 men employed. Work at the Scotia property has been halted temporarily until the P. G. & E. Co. cuts in the power. As soon as the Scotia shaft is cleared Mr. L. S. Wincapaw, superintendent stated plans are to sink and raise in its development. In time the company will connect, by tunnel, the Scotia and Golden Center properties through the Alta Hill property. Twenty men will be employed when the Scotia resumes operations.

GRACEY MINE

Two shifts continue drifting operations at the Gracey mine southeast of Nevada City. Mr. L. W. Cheney, superintendent, stated plans are to start the mill in the next few days.

SAN JUAN MINE

Two shifts of 16 men are mining and developing at the San Juan mine north of San Juan. A new shaft is being sunk within a short distance of the present workings. Mr. Ray Butterfield is in charge of the operations for the Bradley interests.

MOUNTAIN VIEW MINE

A small crew is building roads at the Mt. View mine near Washington. As soon as the weather settles active development will start. A shaft was started on the property last fall according to reports. This group of properties were taken over by mining men of southern California. Some of these properties have shallow shafts that have produced well in the past.

ZEIBRIGHT MINE

The 500 daily capacity mill at the Zeibright mine east of Nevada City, is treating 300 tons of ore per day and the company is preparing to increase its tonnage. Plans are going forward to build two bunk houses and several cabins there being a shortage of living quarters for the men required in mine operations. A baseball field is to be cleared and laid out in nearby Bear Valley for the company for the mine employees. The Newmont company is operating the property.

School Strike Epidemic

(Contributed)

Apparently California is in for an epidemic of school student strikes, and while it is too late now to rectify the original mistake, we can at least learn from our misfortune what not to do the next time.

A jubilant band of 500 students in a holiday mood last week deserted classrooms of a Fresno high school, demanding as the price of their return the ousting of their principal and a "square deal" for their basketball team. And leaders of the walkout admitted it was inspired by the success of Alameda high school students in a similar venture a week earlier.

The "original sin" seems to have been that the Alameda parents when they "visited upon the children" an unpleasant job they could have undertaken themselves some time before things go to a point where the youngsters had to strike. That job was to repel political interference in school administration.

It was no secret that a political group was gunning for Superintendent Paden, and before that sniping developed into a direct ouster, which moved the students to act, there was time to get District Attorney Warren to rule Paden's contract binding. Such a ruling the District Attorney Warren did hand down after the student strike, but by that time the damage had been done.

Students throughout the state had seen a strike work, and it was inevitable they should follow suit, whether or not right was on their side. Needless to say, school strikes cost citizen considerable each hour of their duration, classes are disrupted, time for learning is lost, and the effect generally is unwholesome.

Fortunately, the scars of this outbreak will heal in time. And from it we shall have learned, at least, the wisdom of repulsing political intrusion in school affairs immediately, whenever and wherever it occurs.

NEVADA CITY BOY SCOUTS SEE TAHOE SKI MEET

Seven members of the local Boy Scout troop returned early this week following a week end outing in the Tahoe district. Headed by Ranger John Hodgson, sub-taking the place of Scoutmaster George R. Schrader who was ill, the group spent Saturday afternoon at the Big Bend ranger station and in the nearby hills, skiing and enjoying the crisp air of the high mountain country.

Sunday the group attended the state championship ski meet held on the Tahoe ski hill.

Those who attended were Ray Wilde, Bob Graham, Reggie Kennedy, George Schrader Jr., Bob Small, Dick Marriott, and Bob Tucker and Henry Toccalini, assistant scout masters.

This is the first of a series of outings planned by the local scout organization which is sponsored by the Native Sons of Nevada City.

INTERCLASS TRACK MEET AT HIGH TODAY

Signs of spring will become particularly evident at the Nevada City high this afternoon when the annual inter-class track meet is held. Entries in the various events have been taking advantage of the weather and have practiced daily for the event. All of the events included in interschool track meets will take place with members of the four classes competing for championship honors.

Coach B. C. Barron is supervising the meet. Such an affair enables Barron to select his material for competition with other high schools later in the season, and he is very definitely interested in the results of the meet.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Fontz of Washington were Nevada City visitors on Wednesday. Mr. Fontz is in the employ of the Mt. View mine.

Mr. B. H. Cannady and Mr. E. Caples of Hobart Mills were attending to business in Nevada City Wednesday.

what Irvin S. Cobb thinks about:

Corned Beef and Plagiarism

HOLLYWOOD, CALIF. — The luncheon of our Writers' Club, Inc., (Red Inc.) is a weekly function, with corned beef and cabbage and plagiarism charges. This week we had with us the leading fiction writer of the Pacifice slope—Mr. Daingerfield, the local weather forecaster.

Another guest was William A. Brady, the grand old man of the American stage, with great tales of the ancient days, when, to qualify as a trouper, one had to be a pedestrian. Before they asked you whether you could act, they found out what kind of a walker you were. But how many of those sure-footed California beginners counted crossties as they trudged into enduring fame? Belasco and Tom Wise and Frank Bacon and Holbrook Blinn and Dave Warfield and many another.

Irvin S. Cobb

We also welcomed some new members. We're very exclusive. There are groups here that'll take in people who even failed to make the Book of the Month club. But to join up with us, you must have written something significant—insurance or promissory notes or booster slogans. We're angling now for a distinguished new figure in the field of literature. He does sky-writing, by the way.

New Deal's 3rd Birthday.

THIS being the third anniversary of the New Deal, I was just thinking that, whether or not it lived through the early part of next November, its folks could never reproach themselves that they'd failed to give their darling babykins the best nursing money could buy. Just then who should rush in but Michael Strogoff, the courier of the czar, shouting that the U. S. marines had just landed with a contradiction of the terrifically exciting announcement made only yesterday by the same fellow who took the message to Garcia that time—?

Hold on, I'm getting all twistified. What I'm trying to say is that one day the word for a palpatating planet was that Douglas Fairbanks, Sr., was positively going to marry Lady Ashley, whereas but 24 hours before, he positively was not going to marry Lady Ashley. Then finally he did it.

Main Street Ambition

ONE hears San Francisco would lure more inhabitants in an effort to overtake Los Angeles. But why?

And why do Americans get drunk on population statistics? It's their headiest tipple. Every time Uncle Sam looses his census figures, some towns go into mourning because they haven't grown any faster and other towns have public dancing in the streets because a swarm of new people have moved in to make traffic congested and living inconvenient and pleasant neighborhoods crowded.

Offhand, I think of but one city whose ruling citizens mainly are content with things as they are—the lovely and fascinating city of Charleston. Elsewhere we appear to share with the red ants the mad passion to take on addition red ants until the anthill overflows and all the old resident ants are lost in the shuffle.

Feminine Bank Rolls

WHY can't people mind their own business? A merchandising expert, who probably was just sitting around the house during the cold spell with nothing to do except feed the stove, made an exhaustive inquiry to find out what American women carry in their handbags. He now reports that, in addition to gobs of other things including lipstick, cigarettes, hairpins and recipes, the average woman's pocketbook contains $6.74 in cash.

It was perhaps all right for the gentleman to satisfy his morbid curiosity. Where he erred was in making his discovery public. Just consider how busy the boys in congress will be, thinking up new taxes, when they hear about that much money still being in circulation.

Politicians Making Claims

IN CONGRESS these mad March days are being much used for plain and fancy claiming.

The Republicans claim the Democratic party is to blame for the recent bad times and deserves no credit for the better times now prevalent, the Republican theory being that the good fairies must have brought 'em.

The Democrats claim that such bad times as we've had since they moved in were really inherited from the final stretch of the previous administration, which, as they seem to recall, was one of the best times for bad times anybody ever saw.

If there are any little odds and ends of unclassified times floating around, both parties are willing for Senator La Follette to claim them for his very own.

WOMEN PLEAD FOR LIBRARY IN CAMPTONVILLE

(By MRS. RITA DAVIS)

Gold Pan Lodge, Camptonville

A large representative group of men and women met at the Marysville court house on Saturday, March 7, to make plans for the county's campaign to acquire the most highly prized possession of an intelligent community—a free county library system.

Yuba is one of the twelve northern counties in the entire state of California that has no free library facilities. It is, therefore, obvious that men, women and children in every other part of the state, even in the most remote rural sections, enjoy cultural opportunities so far in advance of ours, they make us appear either very unaggressive or entirely uninterested in the welfare of our communities in general and of our own families in particular.

What kind of books are the young people in your home reading? It may be a revelation to you to discover that they are quite often very objectionable, glorifying crime, immorality and indecency; filling young minds with material of such shocking nature as to lead, in some cases, to lives of grave unhappiness.

How can you cultivate in them a taste for the worthwhile things in life? By opening to them the gateway to fine ideals of manhood and womanhood through the medium of an easily accessible influence—good literature.

Is not at least one adult member of your family interested in some particular branch of industry—mining, lumber, chemistry, mechanics, science, the arts, music, handicraft or any other specialized field of endeavor too numerous to mention here? Go to your local library. You can get books on any subject for the asking. If it is not on hand, it will be obtained for you, usually within a few days. You pay nothing, for the service. The library is yours. The librarians want to help you, cooperating with the state library to supplement what the county library may lack.

The taxpayer is, of course, most concerned. "How much will the library tax amount to?" is the uppermost thought in his mind. The answer is—less than a year's subscription to a five cent weekly magazine. The annual rate will not be more than at fifty five cents per thousand dollars of assessed valuation. What a small amount to pay for a necessity of such vast importance to a community.

How can you get a library branch close to you? Merely by telling your supervisor that you want it. That is all. Each individual of voting age should immediately send him a postcard, or tell him personally that you want a free library branch in your vicinity. Petitions are also being circulated. Sign them!

The board of supervisors meets in June. They must be convinced by then that Yuba county wants and needs the advantages of a free library. Each thoughtful, intelligent man and woman in Yuba county wants the same opportunities that are open to the people everywhere else in California as well as in every part of the United States. Let's Put It Over!

For further information communicate with Miss Mary Meade, Chairman Yuba County Grand Jury Education Committee, Marysville or Mrs. Rita Davis, Gold Pan Lodge, Camptonville.

U. C. MEN FIND FOSSIL REPTILES IN SOUTH AFRICA

BERKELEY, March 19.—A rare collection of fossil mamal-like reptiles with an estimated age of 200,000,000 years, and composing the species from which much of the later mammal life was derived, is on its way to the University of California from the Karoo Formation in the Transvaal region of South Africa. The collection was made by Dr. Charles L. Camp, director of the University's museum of palaentology working under a fellowship from the Guggenheim Foundation.

Executives of the museum here believe that the collection may be one of the last of any type taken by outside scientists from the Karoo fields and adjoining territory, which have now been worked for nearly 100 years. Restrictions imposed by the Transvaal government may confine future collections to African museums. Despite the long period of scientific activity in this field. Dr. Kamp was enabled to find a new formation, 30 miles long and 10 miles wide, in which he found most of the present specimens.

The African fields supply intermediate forms of reptile life not found elsewhere. Older forms have been found in Arizona and New Mexico, but Africa alone appears to hold the species leading up to the advanced reptile and primitive mammal life. These collections increase the evidence in favor of the theory of evolution and, from another practical standpoint, aid in the determination of the sites of certain coal and mineral deposits.

In making the collection Dr. Kamp used a well tried out automobile which had negotiated the sketchy roads and trails of the remote Transvaal regions with some degree of success before. The region was the scene of the war between the Britsh and the Boers at the beginning of the century and contains many world famous diamond mines.

Dr. Camp's collection will be the third of its kind in the country when set up. One is in the Museum of Natural History in New York and the other in the Walker Museum of the University of Chicago.

AETNA PROPERTY

Eight men are employed in development operations on the 200 foot level in the Aetna property northwest of Nevada City. Mr. John Bardill, who has an option on the property, is also manager. He has had a few men testing ore bodies in the Hussey or Frederic mine in Willow Valley in the last few days by the drilling method.

NEW RESTAURANT

Louis Merlino, of Sacramento, has leased the former Nevada City Tavern on Broad street and intends to open a liquor store and restaurant about April first. He will have a big opening night after remodeling and renaming his establishment.

The brightest thing I ever did.....

"About the brightest thing I ever did was buy this car through Bank of America. That gave me a good financial standing. Now when I need money for other things . . . to pay taxes, bills, for emergencies, to buy furniture or to repair or improve the house . . . I can always get it at Bank of America. The manager knows me now, and I don't need other references. It makes a man feel good to know he can borrow from his bank. . . ."

Question: How can you establish your credit at Bank of America?

Answer: By simply borrowing once for any personal reason. The most common way is to finance your car through Bank of America. This establishes your credit for other things.

Borrow from BANK of AMERICA and you establish bank credit for future needs...

SENIOR FARCE CAST IS CHOSEN

Following tryouts late last week, the cast for the Senior Farce of the Class of 1936 was selected. Miss Nancy Jones will direct this year's production, "Three Cornered Moon." Rehearsals are in progress, and it is expected that the success of the student body play will be duplicated in the production of the farce.

A one act play will be presented as a curtain raiser, and the cast will be announced as soon as it is chosen.

IDAHO-MARYLAND MINES

Mr. Errol MacBoyle, vice president and general manager of the Idaho-Maryland mines, Inc., stated to a Nugget reporter Wednesday that the company will install a new cyanide leaching plant for treatment of tailing sands, this spring. This plant will treat 360 tons of tailings per day. The boring machine has completed the 1,000 foot circular shaft and it has been found under certain conditions this method of shaft sinking is satisfactory.

I'd Like To Be

I want to be a rugged soul
And with the rugged stand,
A six gun in my holster
A gas pipe in my hand.

I'd serve competitors a blow
As they went scuttling by,
And if that did not give them pause
I'd let the bullets fly.

Cooperation? Not for me;
That way is for too tame;
Let weaklings huddle with the pack
I play a lone wolf game.

Now if I were a rugged one,
I'd watch the world pass by,
With all its load of want and woe
And heed no plaintive cry.
I'd like to be as Morgan is,
Secure and unafraid;
My cultural status rated high
Because I kept a maid.

I'd like to say in sturdy tones,
To all the great and wise,
"I brook no interference with My 'private enterprise'."

But I am just a simple soul
In constant dread, you see,
Of what the rugged ones will do
When they discover me.

TWO SCHOOLS OF THOUGHT AT WAR IN WASHINGTON

(By REPRESENTATIVE LLOYD THURSTON OF IOWA)

There are two schools of thought in Washington. One is the New Deal, which seeks to solve all our problems through the creation of new bureaus, commissions, and corporations owned by the government. This borders on Socialism. The other, the Republicans, contend that our problems can be cured only by the tried American plan of persons or private organizations.

Do you want the employment of your children based upon political influence? Will you require them to go into the political begging business in order to find positions? Will their future always be harassed with the uncertainty of employment?

Or, may they enjoy security and happiness through their own merit and worth? The next election may decide this question for many years to come.

The objective of the old triple-A program sought to reduce the production of the farms by about one-fourth. The new Act is substantially the same. We agree that a fair price for farm products will benefit the farmer, who will have funds to purchase the output of the factory, there by increasing the number employed in shops and manufacturing establishments. Normal conditions in this country cannot be re-established until the farm problem is solved.

Contradictory as it may appear, the President has allocated about three-fourths of a billion dollars for irrigation and reclamation projects, which when completed will cost 1 1-2 billion dollars or more, and which ultimately will bring into cultivation many thousands of acres of productive land, to compete against the farmers who are now being urged to restrict their farm crops. Thousands of mortgages were foreclosed on farms in the region where these new irrigated tracts are located, proving the unsoundness of these projects. As taxpayers, you are paying for these projects, and while the adverse effect may not be felt for several years, ultimately this additional production will cause another dislocation of agriculture.

The plan to restrict farm production about one-fourth will logically displace about the same per cent of farm labor. In what manner shall we re-employ these persons?

Frequently our people do not associate politics with business or government. You and I are partners, owning equal shares of stock in the greatest business concern in the world, our government; and we should be equally interested in employing as managers, those qualified in their respective duties, to insure success.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Tourtellotte of Big Creek, Fresno county, returned home Wednesday after a ten day stay at their home in Willow Valley east of this city.

MINERS DECLARE SILLICOSIS RATE PROPOSED, SILLY

The Mining Association of the Southwest has filed the following brief with the State Insurance Commissioner:

To the Honorable S. L. Carpenter, Jr. Commissioner of Insurance, San Francisco, California:

The three hearings which have been held before you concerning proposed surcharges due to Silicosis have developed the following facts which are incontrovertible:

1. That the Inspection Rating Bureau has utterly failed to show any need whatsoever for increased premium rates to provide for the hazard of Silicosis; in fact, it has shown that in California, Silicosis at worst is a minor hazard, and in the majority of industries is no hazard at all.

2. That so far as the mining industry is concerned, the evidence produced in the hearings clearly proves that Silicosis occurs in a very inconsiderable degree. The Rating Bureau has wholly failed in all of its contentions that Silicosis either has been or will be a considerable hazard.

RATE BUREAU DISCREDITED

3. That, by the Bureau's own presentation, the actual experience cost record of Silicosis in California is only one-seventh of one per cent of total compensation costs, whereas the surcharge rates proposed by the Bureau are several hundred such experience, which constitutes an obvious absurdity and discredits the proposals of the Bureau in their entirety; and according to law, the Commissioner is required to take cognizance of such circumstances.

4. That the Commissioner of Insurance, within the contemplations of the law, is obligated to take full cognizance of the fact that the Rating Bureau has not performed its functions in this case as a fact-finding body; and that the Commissioner erred in failing to promptly reject unfounded proposals of the Bureau, and thereby put industry and labor to great unnecessary expense; that such expense mounted to thousands of dollars to the State of California and to those required to prepare and attend the various hearings held, by virtue of legal, travel and other expenses, in the fact of the fact that no acceptable data was in the hands of the Commissioner to warrant hearings.

ATTEMPT TO SHIFT PROOF

5. That the law contemplates that the burden of proof is on insurance carriers and or the Rating Bureau to convincingly prove the need and propriety of increased premium rates, and that no such proof has been furnished in this case.

That, at the close of the hearing on February 11, when Attorney Burbank of the Bureau stated that "any industry that could prove it had no Silicosis hazard might be exempted from the proposed surcharges." (or words substantially to that effect) he was directly in conflict with the contemplation of law that rates must be based on the hazard or loss experience, and consequently the Bureau's attitude is an illegal attempt to shift the burden of proof.

5. That the Commissioner errs seriously and is not in compliance with the spirit and intent of law, when he assumes that the "economic effect of the proposed increases on labor and industry is irrelevant." Such a position is in virtual defiance of the law inasmuch as the law has clothed the Commissioner with discretion, which implies that this must be exercised reasonably.

MEAGER DATA

That in its written admission that its entire data are "relatively meager," as to Silicosis costs, and that data can be discovered only from other sections of the world, which actually have no application to California conditions, the Rating Bureau disqualifies its proposals in the whole matter of mining compensation insurance rates and its recommendations must be disregarded; and that the law is a command in this instance, binding on the Commissioner.

7. That in the policy of adopting a "credit" plan for the application of the proposed surcharges, the promise of the Rating Bureau to return excessive portions of the premiums is a futile and idle gesture, in face of the testimony that fed industries could afford the proposed rates which, if imposed, would cause bankruptcy.

8. That any plan which contemplates surcharge rates segregated both as to premium and reserves from present manual rates, is manifestly unsound; and is unanimously objected to by industry.

REQUIRED BY INS. COMPANY

8. That until the Commissioner, in compliance with Section 11740 of the Insurance Code, requires all compensation insurance carriers to file sworn reports of their business broken down in understandable detail as demanded by the Mining Industry, and holds a hearing for consideration of such reports after proper time for study and analysis by interested parties, the Commissioner is not in compliance with law and is neither qualified nor competent to pass judgment upon proposals for new rates, nor are industry and labor adequately fortified with information to accept rulings by the Commissioner; and that the absence of such information, which the law contemplates shall be furnished, only invites redress through litigation; and until the Commissioner carries out the spirit and intent of law he is not properly administering the functions of his office.

That by reason of demands made by representatives of the Mining Industry, as well as the law, the Commissioner is obliged to fully investigate present premium rate schedules; and until this has been done, no equitable or just conclusions can be reached within the spirit of the law as set forth in Sections 11735, 11734 and 11740 of the Insurance Code; and that until interested parties shall have access to full information, such as has been demanded, it cannot be properly established that present premiums and refunds are not practices of discrimination, and it is contended that every payer of premiums is entitled to proof that no discrimination exists, either as to individual companies or industries.

COMMISSIONER ERRS

10. That in conducting the three recent hearings, the Commissioner adopted unusual and unfair procedure in not requiring, in each instance, that the Rating Bureau present its case and support the same with definite facts and figures; that because of such dereliction, industry was at a distadvantage in not knowing precisely what it was to be confronted with.

And in particular, the Commissioner erred in two instances, in permitting Mr. Burbank, attorney for the Bureau, to take the floor at the conclusion of hearings when the majority of those opposing had departed, in order that Mr. Burbank might write into the record of the proceedings, self-serving matter, free of refutation by a majority of those in attendance at the hearings, who opposed the Bureau's proposals.

TOO MANY GUESSES

11. That the record of the hearings indisputedably shows that the Rating Bureau presented nothing more than guesses and opinions in substantiation of its proposals, and, further, the Bureau in writing admits this to be a fact; and that it is contrary to the spirit and intent of law that the Commissioner accept such vague matter as evidence or proof; and that if the Commissioner elects to give consideration to such matter as proper evidence, he does so to the prejudice and injury of labor and industry, and as a partisan of insurance carriers.

12. That the whole proceedings in connection with the proposals of the Bureau and the resulting hearings, have been a travesty on actuarial procedure and lead to loss of public confidence in all matters having to do with fixing rates for Workmen's Compensation Insurance.

12. That the Rating Bureau in its communication of December 17 stated that "the trend of dust disease claims, including Silicosis, is upward in California;" that such a statement as the only basis for a change of rates is both misleading and deceptive, and is intended to conceal the facts by implying that "claims" is equivalent to costs, whereas such is not true. Furthermore, an inference that Silicosis as a disease is on the increase in California is not supported by facts; but, on the contrary, such inconsiderable Silicosis as actually does exist is expected to be on the decrease due to practices of most employers, and to study and research, aided by rules and regulations promulgated by our State Accident Commission for the prevention of dust diseases.

14. That there are no new legal principles involved in this case.

DECEPTIVE STATEMENTS

15. That the Rating Bureau has misrepresented the situation as to Silicosis and dust diseases, and by singular language has made deceptive statements; that the Bureau patently is not concerned with the public interest or the interest of the industries insured but on the other hand is primarily concerned in establishing additional income for private insurance carriers; that, while admitting it has no available data to support its proposals, this Bureau at the same time sponsors a schedule of rates of seeming precision in order to deceive industry into beliiving the schedule was arrived at scientifically, such as $7.84 for under ground mining surcharges; that it is a proper legal presumption that where a party practises deception in one instance, that party's whole case is to be disbelieved.

In view of the above, it appears unthinkable that the Commissioner of Insurance can take any course other than to reject the proposals made by the Rating Bureau, and decline to impose surcharge rates on Industry because of dust disease apprehensions on the part of a Bureau which admittedly knows no facts.

JUNIOR PROM TO TAKE COLORS OF RAINBOW

Friday evening, March 27, has been set as the date of the annual Junior Prom of the Nevada City high school this year. Working with their advisor, B. C. Barron, and their president, John Harding, the Class of 1937 has made definite plans for their function this year, and have chosen active committees to care for the details of the affair.

A rainbow theme has been accepted by the class, and the pot of gold at the end of the rainbow will be in the form of a refreshment booth. Color effects will be designed around the central theme making Armory Hall radiant with the numerous shades of the rainbow.

Committes to take charge of the dance and chairmen appointed to head them are as follows: decorations, Ruth Curnow; refreshments, Hazel Thomas; finance, Catherine Stephens and Fred Garrison Jr.; publicity, John Kron; property, Bob Proctor; clean up, Marlin Young.

NEVADA CONSOLIDATED

Work is progressing rapidly in rehabilitating several properties in the Willow Valley district taken over by the Thomas F. Cole interests. Machinery is being installed; the hoist house built, concrete poured for the foundation for the hoist; the engine installed; and the Bellefontaine shaft is being cleaned out. It is expected unwatering the shaft will start by the end of this week. Mr. Thomas Cole, who suffered a severe attack of influenza some time ago is able to be about, but it will be some time before he will come to Nevada City. His son, Fred Cole is remaining in Pasadena to be near his father for a time.

Bids will be opened for the third time at the Nevada City high school Saturday, March 28 at 2 p. m. for the construction of the proposed addition to the high school.

Previous bids have been rejected because they were two high, way above the money available for the work.

Revised plans have been made and approved by the school board and other authorities whose approval is required.

The Nevada board of trustees hopes that this time acceptable bids will be made so that work on the building may begin very soon.

A Glimpse of Building Activity

VOL 1. MARCH 20, 1936. No. 12.

Familiarity with building materials among the general public is not very great and that is one of the reasons that our organization strives to explain the uses of various grades and kinds of materials to the prospective user. Better to ask questions of us beforehand than to buy the wrong materials and be sorry afterward.

Mr. Charles Cottrell is constructing a new home on the Red Dog road east of Nevada City.

Building activities are in full sway at Camp Nevada City, south of town and when the program is complete this state camp will be a fine unit in the system.

A waterproof cement is available at a very slight cost over the ordinary cement and in many cases its use will give a job that is highly satisfactory. This is particularly true of basement walls and floors where dampness can be kept out with the waterproof cement.

The Nevada City high school grounds are taking on quite a different appearance with a number of men working on the new tennis courts, a rock wall on one side of the athletic field and many other improvements.

Just think what a fine improvement a little investment in paint will make on the outside of that house, and how a few gallons of Pabco Interior Finish will brighten up the interior. This is the right time of the year to get at those paint jobs.

LET'S LAUGH

A fat student at the university had just finished a particularly unsuccessful recitation in English. The professor remarked:

"Mr. Jones, you seem to be better fed than taught."

JESSE M. MAYO SEEKS 3RD TERM IN LEGISLATURE

In a formal statement to the newspapers of the Sixth Assembly District of which Nevada county is a part, Assemblyman Jesse M. Mayo, today announced his candidacy for a third term in the state legislature at the August primary. Mayo, who is also publisher of newspapers at San Andreas and Angels Camp, will seek both Republican and Democratic party nominations.

His statement follows:

"In the four years that I have had the privilege and pleasure of representing the people of the sixth district, which is the largest in voter population as well as area in the state, I have naturally formed somewhat of a public record at Sacramento. That record is recorded in journals of the Assembly. In seeking re-election to the Assembly or any public office, a public servant should and must stand upon his public record for judgment by the voters from whom he seeks their suffrage. That I shall do during the coming campaign.

"A legislator's public record is made up of his achievements in securing adoption of measures sponsored by himself on behalf of the people of his district and the state as a whole, as well as those measures sponsored by others in which he takes part, either to assist in their adoption, if beneficial to the people, or to aid in their defeat if they are detrimental to his district.

"I believe that my record in the last two sessions of the legislature, plus the actual experience gained, entitles me to again go before the people of the district seeking re-election, and from time to time, I shall discuss the issues freely in a sincere effort to more fully acquaint the people of the district with my record, and what I believe to be the vital legislative problems of the mountain counties."

The sixth district which comprises ten moutain counties has a voter registration of more than 50,000 and stretches over an area approximately 500 miles long, from Truckee on the north to San Bernardino county on the south.

In the 1933-35 sessions of the legislature, Mayo lead the successful fight against the proposed severance tax upon gold, silver, timber and other natural resources, of the mountain counties and the proposal of county consolidation, which would have resulted in the larger counties swallowing up the smaller mountain communities. Among the outstanding measures sponsored by him during the two sessions were the increase of more than 50 per cent in gasoline tax distribution to smaller counties, the lowering of mine compensation insurance, the inclusion of hundreds of miles of county highways added to the state system and the return of public utility property to county assessment rolls, which in most instances resulted in a decrease of more than 50 per cent in real and personal property taxes.

SNEATH AND CLAY PROPERTY

The surface plant at the Sneath and Clay property southeast of Nevada City on Gold Flat, has been practically reconditioned. A small building near the old shaft has been fitted up for a dry house and power was cut into the mine this week to start unwatering the 400 foot shaft. Mr. W. Noell is foreman and Mr. Byron L. Eastman, engineer, is in charge of the property which was taken under lease and bond by Mr. C. C. Van Loben Sels and son recently.

FRANK MILLER TELLS OF FLOOD IN JOHNSTOWN

The big flood on the Conemaugh river which is overflowing Johnstown, Penn., that town which was in 1898 inundated by the breaking of a dam, resulting in the loss of 2,000 lives, recalls to Frank Miller, of North San Juan, the narrow escape of his family when that death dealing mountain of water swept down the valley.

The senior Miller was a conductor on the railroad and, twenty miles below Johnstown, saw the flood coming and he with the train crew took to the hills. The train was badly wrecked. Frank Miller's mother heard of the catastrophe in time and fled to high ground with Frank's brother, then an infant. The house which has been in the Miller family for many generations withstood the deluge and half way up the windows in the second story is still preserved the high water mark of the great Johnstown flood. There in the cemetery seven hundred persons were buried in one grave, their headstones raying out from a common center so that from any point of view the visitor will se a long straight line of these monuments to the drowned.

CONSTRUCTION OF NEW SCHOOL AT TRUCKEE STARTS

SAN FRANCISCO, March 19,—It was announced today at the office of the State Director, PWA, that the award of a contract for the construction of the new grammar school at Truckee, in Nevada County, to H. L. Peterson, of San Francisco, was approved on Marc 12. Actual construction on this building is scheduled to start today.

The Truckee school building is one of the types of permanent public improvements fostered and aided by the Public Works Administration in California. The old school building was condemned by the State Department of Public Works, Division of Architecture—the building having been long considered a menace to the lives of the school children. Until the new school house is completed, classes are being held in rented or temporary buildings.

AMERICA IS THE PRODUCT OF ITS PUBLIC SCHOOLS

SAN FRANCISCO, March 16.—America is the product of its schools.

No other agency is so important in the lives of adolescent youth as the school, stated Dr. George A. Rice, associate professor of education at the University of California and principal of the University High School, in speaking on the value of the junior high school before the Public Education Society of San Francisco.

The junior high school has been in existence for about 5 years, Ds. Rice said, and arose out of the necessity to provide school changes for certain groups of students. Whereas, in its early development the development of a vocational education program was stressed, economic changes have resulted in less need for minors in work and a less and less emphasis on trade courses.

"Twenty years ago 50 per cent of junior high school students left school at the end of the eighth grade. Now 100 per cent go into the ninth grade." Dr. Rice pointed out.

Training for the social development of adolescents and for good citizenship has become the principal objective of the junior high schoo today.. The modern educational process to explore the possibilities of each youngster so he can make as rapid and as sure advancement into adult life as may be possible.

GREAT PATRIOT IS NEEDED, SAYS JOHN L. McNAB

SAN MATEO, March 19.—"Every time your watch ticks the United States spends $400 and every time you inhale, the Democratic administration spends the price of two automobiles," John L. McNab, San Francisco attorney, declared here tonight at a registration rally of the San Mateo Republican assembly.

Mr. McNab said:

"The next president of the United States, if he is to preserve the happiness of this country, must be the greatest patriot since George Washington. He will be confronted with the greatest mess in American history. He must be prepared to forfeit popularity He must drown his own political future.

"He will be faced with the job of cleaning up the most stupendous mass of wreckage ever dumped into a peacetime era. No man can laugh his way through it. No man can smile it away. The staggering wastage of the people's money can no longer be measured. It has outrun all the lead pencils of the economists. From a trickle it became a rivulet. And now it is a Niagara of measureless waste.

"We were told that a few billions would prime the pump and the waters of recovery would flow. But we have poured billions down the pump and still the well is dry. In December, 1933, Professor Tugwell said, 'men are going back to work and government revenues are increasing.' That was two years and four months ago. Unemployment then stood at 11,500,000. Yesterday President Green of the American Federation of Labor said unemployment in January, 1936, was 12,500,000—an increase of one million.

"This country was built by private industry and the energy and courage of Americans who were not afraid to work. They had the courage to dare and the energy to create wealth. They hired men, built factories, saved money and made the United States what it was six years ago. They will restore America to its place of power, and set its unemployed to work if the administration will only leave them alone."

MOVED TO MOORES FLAT

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Davidson of Nevada City moved their household furnishings to their mine at Moores Flat this week. Mr. Davidson will start drifting on two claims, the Sadie D. and Birdie L. as soon as he is settled. He states these claims are on the same ledge as the Fruitvale property on Moores Flat and the Kenton mine in the Alleghany district. Several rich strikes have been reported from the Kenton mine in recent weeks and Mr. Davidson has found high grade in the Queen mine he owns, and which is on the same ledge formation. Operations at this property will be watched with keen interest as it will reopen a district that has a high past production record, from properties that have only been worked on the surface.

LUMBER TALKS

We will gild the lilies, spring time fairies said,
We will paint the roses pink and red;
We'll perform our magic task in the spring time weather,
Putting color in the world—working altogether.
Thus these houses, said the elves—
You will have to paint yourselves. A. M. C.

Springtime is paint time. All wood surfaces inside or outside need paint—if inside the house, lacquers, varnishesor paint. This is the time of the year to do it.

Summer is coming with its hot weather that warps or checks wood construction everywhere it is exposed to the heat. Save the surface and you save all. This is trite, but still true.

YOU MAY CHOOSE YOUR PAINT:

GOLD SEAL	Quart 50c	gallon	$1.25
HIGGINS SCOTCH	Quart 65c	gallon	$1.95
HIGGINS PROGRESS	Quart 75c	gallon	$2.45
